Agree To Aid Each Other in Event of War

New Pact Pledging Former Enemies To Fight Side by Side Increases Tension in European Capitals and May Prove Blow to British-French Efforts To Eventually Win Support of Italy

By The Associated Press

Germany and Italy - world war enemies but friends now - converted their partnership into a formal military and diplomatic alliance yesterday (Sunday) in a move interpreted as a go-ahead to Adolf Hitler in his dispute with Poland.

The decision, which came on the 20th anniversary of the delivery of the Versailles treaty to Germany and the issuance of mandates for German colonies, was believed to commit the two powers to fight side by side in any future European war.

It was said after the official announcement of the agreement that the treaty will be known as the pact of Milan, and that details will be worked out for the signatures in the next two weeks.

Blow To British, French

In London, the step was considered a blow to the French-British front, which had hoped to wean Italy away from Germany eventually, and in Paris as heralding immiand a motor road through Pomorze, the Polish corridor.

An authoritative Fascist in Rome insisted, however the new alliance was "not directed against anyone." Some Fascists held the view Italy now would tend to exert a moderating influence on German policy to protect herself against any war in which her own interests were not directly in-

The Roads Appointments

GOVERNOR O'CONOR has again done well in his selection of P. Watson Webb and J. Glenn Beall for membership on the important State Roads Commission.

Watson, widely known editor and banker, who has been active for many years in various enterprises of his section of the state, will bring to the commission a knowledge and a temperament that bodes well for a successful tenure.

The recall of Beall to serve temporarily as the Republican member of the commission is distinctly a recognition of merit, which he and his multitude of friends in Western Maryland, and throughout the state, can regard as a high compliment.

They would naturally like to see the permanent appointment go to him and they hope that in availing himself of the useful services of this man over the transitory period of reorganization as a wise and necessary step, Governor O'Conor will find his work so indispensible that he will continue him on the job.

Pesky

THAT FAMILIAR SPRING VISITOR, the omnipresent hardy dandelion is here again, sprinkling the lawns and fields with a multitude of yellow and white dots.

It's a pesky thing, this dandelion, prolific to the point of exasperation on the part of those who seek to keep the common weeds down. It is so persistent in growth and spreads so rapidly that the most energetic gardner can scarcely keep step with it. Before he can get around, the pretty yellow flowers are metamorphosed over night with the quickness of a mushroom into downy balls of light seed which the slightest zephyr scatters over the landscape in multitude to drop finally to the moist ground and there germinate into more plants.

But, pesky as it is, the dandelion is after all a thing of beauty. Its vivid yellow flower makes a pleasing contrast to the dark green of the grass and adds life and color to the

Should Be Dammed

WHETHER Congress is really in earnest about flashing, a red light on the flood of government publications may be doubted. But it is somewhat significant that at least it has reached the point where a proposal has been given form to restrain distribution on the freeand-easy basis which has marked the New

Some persons call the stuff which loads government mail propaganda; some have termed it publicity; the defense always has been that cies are doing. The latter is true enough in a sense. The public should know what its government agancies are doing. But there is no assurance that they get more than these government agencies want them to know.

Anyway, if there is eighty million to be saved by damming the flood, the flood should be dammed. Sometimes it seems as though the chief activities of heads of government whatnots are directed to telling the country what great persons they are and how mightily they are serving the people. But we would venture the opinion that the people don't really care a hoot for all that.

Ramifications of government publicity organizations are beyond the power of analysis. No one has been able to determine how many ghost writers find steady employment in these services nor what the whole thing costs the public. Perhaps that estimate of eighty million is too large; perhaps it is not large enough. One thing is certain, however: If the many artists who spend their time playing upon that massive government lyre were retired, no government interest would really suffer.

The Mystery of Russia

IT is almost inconceivable that a nation like Russia which covers so great an area of the earth's surface and houses so many hundreds of millions of human beings, can remain mysterious, impenetrable. Recently the events in the J. S. R. R. have been beyond interpretation by nternational experts, who confess their utter

That Russia is bound toward a definite goal which concerns all the rest of the world is evident, but what that goal is puzzles the nations beyond its boundaries. The enormous hordes which go to make up the Soviet Union keep their dark secret.

Russia is a dictatorship, yet it has not been a party to the understandings between other dictatorships, Germany, Italy and Japan. It appears to be violently opposed to capitalism, yet its Communism is of a different type from that recognized by Communists in other nations. It appears to stand alone. To what end is not that trials of veteran Bolshevists brought to a climax years of uneasiness at the policy of the Senator Glass a Soviet government and that virtually all of the top rank army officers who were shot "for treason" were innocent of any wrong-doing.

All of this may appear to be far away from present interests, but it is not. The near future may reveal a vital relationship between the mysterious goings on in Russia and the welfare of the rest of the world.

Any News Today?-Think

NEWSPAPERS lately have come in for some criticism for their handling of business news. "Most of the papers play just two old tunes," said one critic. "One is pages of security prices, in which probably one reader in twenty has any interest. The other is their columns of hot air from Mr. Big Shot on the wonderful outlook for improved conditions this summer, coupled usually with a report that sales of Consolidated Gadgets were up two per cent last month."

This criticism is only in part deserved by the newspapers. Most of the responsibility rests with business men themselves. The business man has failed to recognize the importance of reporters and editors in community life. "No news today," he tells a reporter, although he Carter Glass' may have just witnessed some scene from the jally those of the first and second great human comedy as enacted in his store or Bull Run, which the Confederates plant. The Maryland Theatre's forthcoming attraction is the story of an humble boy and girl, a taxi driver and his sweetheart, who look forward to their early marriage with all the eagerness and tenderness of two young people in love. Their dreams of happiness with each other disappear when a sudden trick of fate casts the boy in the role of murderer.

Miss O'Sullivan is seen as the little waitress who defiantly and determinedly fights the world in order to prove the innocence of her sweetheart. Mr. Fonda, as the innocent cabbie, is said to exceed even his most memorable performances of recent years. Mr. Bellamy with youth, the Rev. Fred B. Wyand told an overflow congregation at Kingsley Methodist church last night

Dictatorships Flayed As Rev. F. B. Wyand Opens Youth Revival

Mr. Wyand's address marked the opening of a youth revival sponsored by young people of the three branches of Methodism in the Cumberland area. Services will coninue each evening at 7:45 through

Methodist church, declared:

"The hour is come. Before us are two courses. We are either to have Christ or chaos; salvation or swords; blood cleansing or blood spilling; filled churches or crowded catacombs; a revival of religion or a return to the dark ages. Which do we prefer? The time is here when we must choose.

In this choice," he declared, "youth will take a major role." You have inherited the present condition of this troubled world, the speaker told the young people, "but you can set it right.

The great Welsh revival broke out under the leadership of youth. If America is to have a great religious awakening, youth must bring it about "Twenty years ago I called mer from platform and rostrum to our national colors," the minister asserted. "Today I call you to Christ.

"At no time since His crucifixion does Jesus need to be glorified more than He does at this hour," Mr Wyand continued.

'Again, like a drunken man, this sinsick world is focking and reeling in her wickedness. Wars and rumors of war are on every hand. Dictators, affected with a mania for world power, are dissecting nations

LIBERTY OR DEATH-Using the immortal words of Patrick Henry, "Give me liberty or give me death," Mrs. Emma Wolfe stood in the path of a steam shovel last week and prevented workmen from excavating new entrances to the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. The new entrances lead to the club from the recently-relocated Baltimore Pike. Mrs. Wolfe, who lives across the road from the club, says the property belongs to her.
